Why Join us?

When an emergency happens, it can threaten public safety, the environment, property and the economy. Emergencies can be caused by severe weather, infectious diseases, industrial accidents or spills, or by intentional acts. The very nature of an emergency is unpredictable and can easily change in scope and impact. SCWARN is here to help mitigate emergencies that the water sector may encounter.

Training

- Matthew Witt, Special Agent, FBI — Water ISAC Infraguard Program
- Brad Hamlett, Cyber Risk Analysis Group — Cybersecurity for Water & Wastewater Utilities
- Andy Sexton/Chad Ayers with ProActive Response — Active Shooter Awareness

SCWARN Website

We will provide an opportunity for anyone that wishes to stay after the morning sessions to work with the SCWARN interactive website. Please bring your own laptop to access the website. We will walk through the process of how to be the requesting and responding utility.

Who Should Attend?

Anyone that is interested in Emergency Planning & Preparedness and SCWARN.
